

Our Responsibility

The political and regulatory environment in the countries in which we explore and operate our mines has a significant impact on our business. To be successful, it is our responsibility to engage in the public policy arena in a manner that is ethical, transparent and in accordance with the law, in order to earn and maintain the confidence of all of our stakeholders, including host governments.

Our Commitment

We are committed to ensuring that our interactions with governments, and those of our employees, are carried out in compliance with Kinross' Code of Business Conduct and Ethics and Government Relations Policy, as well as the laws in every jurisdiction where we operate. We report annually through our corporate responsibility reporting on our priority public policy issues as well as the monetary value and recipients of our political contributions.

Our Approach

We engage in dialogue with government regulators, public policy makers and NGOs directly and through memberships of local industry and trade associations, as well as through our support for the work of relevant independent think tanks. We seek to develop partnerships based on mutual trust and transparency.

Kinross' Code, together with our Government Relations Policy, provides the core framework of guidelines, standards and compliance expectations pertaining to engagement with host governments and employee participation in the political process.

Engagement with Government

Engagement in public policy is a valuable way to have a positive impact on our host communities, contribute to positive development in our host countries and to advance the goals of the Company. We participate in the legislative and political process in a variety of ways, in order to positively impact the environment in which we operate, to increase the likely success of our operations, and to enhance our future opportunities.

Our public policy activities focus primarily on working with our industry trade associations globally to ensure that Kinross' position on important issues is represented. These groups can include industry trade groups, business associations or sector associations, or similar organizations founded and funded by companies or businesses that operate in the mining or extractive resource industry, which are primarily dedicated to the advancement of the mining setting.

Some of these trade associations engage in lobbying activities on behalf of industry, or segments of industry, and also may, either directly or through political action committees, provide contributions to political candidates or causes where permitted by law.

Kinross does not necessarily support all of the individual initiatives and activities engaged in by these trade associations and organizations but believes that, in general, their activities promote the success of the mining sector. Kinross does not control the manner in which trade organizations use any funds contributed by Kinross, although these groups may solicit the input of members such as Kinross.

Political Donations

Kinross makes limited political donations as permitted by applicable law and governed by the Code, our Government Relations Policy, Guidelines and Policy Compliance standards, and the Kinross Gold Corporation Donations and Sponsorship Policy.

In general, the Company discourages political donations and each and every potential donation is evaluated on a case-by-case basis. We have established a rigorous approval process to ensure political donations are in compliance with both Kinross' policy and the law. Submissions must be submitted by the regional/country head of Government Relations, endorsed by the Regional Senior Vice-President Operations and approved by both the Vice President, Compliance and the Senior Vice-President, Government Relations. All submissions require a clear justification and business case, detailed information regarding proposed recipients, and value in local currency and U.S. dollars. Importantly, any submission must include confirmation that any potential donation under consideration is in compliance with the laws within that jurisdiction and does not violate the US Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and the Canadian Corruption of Foreign Public Officials Act.

Kinross' Senior Vice-President, Government Relations is responsible for Kinross' government relations program company wide. Any updates or changes to the Policy must be approved by Kinross' General Counsel and Chief Legal Officer.

At the region and country levels, Government Relations Leads are responsible for government relations regionally and in host countries.

Government relations risks are reported quarterly to the Board's Risk and Audit Committee. Material government relations issues are discussed with the full Board at every meeting, as needed.
