- ✓ Expands opportunity for gain on sale of permanent loans
- ✓ Increases return on equity
- ✓ Higher return on risk weighted assets

- ✓ Increases loan origination capacity
- ✓ Reduces risk-based capital requirements
- ✓ Increases credit protection via off-balance sheet, third party protection

Notes:

- Based on 10% capital requirement
- Estimated Net Interest Margin (NIM). CRT premium expense not incurred on repack and other credit risk transfer options
- Merchants continues to service the loans sold in the repack; recognizing a mortgage servicing asset, an MSR gain, and earning recurring servicing fees not factored in the returns in this example
- Merchants purchases only the senior, Class A certificates. Unaffiliated, third parties purchase the lower tranche certificates and will absorb the first losses. In this example that would be 15%, or $150M
- Loans sold, therefore increases capacity to originate new loans
