

Public Notice of 2019 Dividends Paid Through March 12, 2019 in accordance with IRC §6045B

Dear Shareholder,

LogMeIn, Inc. (“LogMeIn”) paid a dividend on March 12, 2019 to its shareholders of record on February 25, 2019. A dividend can either be taxable as ordinary income or be treated as a return of capital, which reduces the basis of your stock. Based upon our current estimate of earnings and profits for the year ended December 31, 2019, LogMeIn expects that the distributions will be a taxable dividend. The final tax treatment of the distributions will be determined after the end of the fiscal year and if that results in a change to the tax treatment of these dividends reported below, we will update our public notice as necessary.

The tax treatment of LogMeIn’s distribution (dividends vs. return of capital) will be reported to U.S. shareholders on Form 1099-DIV. This form will be mailed to U.S. shareholders in January 2020 for 2019. For U.S. income tax purposes, only, LogMeIn’s March 12, 2019 distribution to shareholders is classified under the U.S. Tax Code as follows:

- 100% is taxable as ordinary income pursuant to Section 301(c) and 316(a) of the Internal Revenue Code.
- On March 12, 2019 LogMeIn paid a total of $16,517,196.80 on 50,822,144 shares of common stock. $0.325 per share should be considered a taxable dividend.
