

Cornerstone Launches Content Anytime Subscriptions for Europe

11/13/2018

New curated subscription offerings for Europe provide localised learning content in multiple languages

LONDON – 13 November, 2018 – Cornerstone OnDemand (NASDAQ:CSOD), a global leader in cloud-based learning and human capital management software, today announced the availability of new Content Anytime subscription offerings for the European market.

Designed to provide organisations with fresh, modern learning content from the top content providers in the world, the new Content Anytime subscriptions feature a range of long-form and micro-learning courses that put employees in control of their own learning and development.

Starting today, the new Content Anytime subscriptions for Europe include:

- Content Anytime Essentials – Our most popular subscription to-date, this offering will now feature a wide-range of soft-skill learning content in multiple languages to help employees prepare for the changing workforce. This subscription is available in multi-language, covering English, Spanish, German, French, and Italian.
- Digital Transformation Subscription – Through this offering, organisations can infuse digital technology skills into every area of the business through courses that are designed to help people master human-machine collaboration. This subscription is also available in multi-language, covering English, Spanish, German, French, and Italian.
- Regional subscriptions – Carefully curated from local vendors, these subscriptions feature essential skills such as communication, leadership, time-management, artificial intelligence, and beyond. The content in these regional subscriptions are customised for businesses operating in Spain, Germany and France.

These subscriptions will help learning and development managers simplify the administration of their course libraries with curated content from Cornerstone's best-in-class content provider ecosystem. These subscriptions will also include exclusive courses from the leading global micro-learning content provider, Grovo, which was recently acquired by Cornerstone.

Each subscription is carefully curated and continually updated based on industry insights and a team of subject matter experts. Additionally, Cornerstone uses machine learning insights from more than 30 million Cornerstone learners around the world to curate subscriptions that feature the most in-demand content to help organisations and their employees stay relevant and competitive in today's skills-based economy.

Comments on the News

“The skills economy has put organisations under pressure to continually upskill and reskill their workforces so they can develop and retain valuable talent and competitive advantage,” said Vincent Belliveau, executive vice president and general manager, EMEA for Cornerstone OnDemand. “Organisations that have multiple European locations face the complex challenge of providing employees with a comprehensive and up-to-date learning content library that is both locally relevant and in local language. Through the new European Content Anytime subscriptions, Cornerstone has done the heavy lifting for companies by surfacing the best local learning content that will help organisations give employees meaningful and engaging learning opportunities.”
