Corporate Responsibility Magazine Ranks Ingersoll Rand on 100 Best Corporate Citizens List

Swords, Ireland, April 24, 2014 - Corporate Responsibility (CR) Magazine placed Ingersoll Rand (NYSE:IR), a world leader in creating comfortable, sustainable and efficient environments, on the magazine's 15th annual "100 Best Corporate Citizens List." Ingersoll Rand's inclusion on the list is based on its disclosure and performance in seven key areas, including climate change, employee relations, environmental, financial, governance, human rights, and philanthropy.

"Ingersoll Rand's approach to corporate responsibility centers around engaging our employees, delighting our customers and delivering results to shareholders," said Marcia Avedon, senior vice president of human resources, communications and corporate affairs. "We are honored to be included on the 100 Best Corporate Citizens list. Ingersoll Rand is uniquely positioned to help our customers find solutions to critical global needs, such as reducing energy demand and improving productivity. In doing so, we help our customers attain their business and sustainability goals and positively impact our role as a corporate citizen globally."

"CR Magazine's 100 Best Corporate Citizens List is the only ranking that doesn't rely on self-reporting," said Elliot Clark, CEO of CR Magazine. "Each year, we measure the most transparent companies who report on their responsible practices. We congratulate those honored on this year's 100 Best Corporate Citizens List for their commitment to corporate responsibility."

CR Magazine and the Corporate Responsibility Officers Association (CROA) share a common purpose in advancing corporate accountability and responsibility. Companies from the Russell 1000 index are considered for the Top 100 Best Corporate Citizens ranking and are evaluated on publicly available data sources of over 298 data elements.

Earlier this year, Ingersoll Rand was recognized for the second consecutive year among FORTUNE Magazines' "World's Most Admired Companies" in 2014, ranking fourth in the Diversified Industrial Category and received accolades for being one of The Achievers 50 Most Engaged Workplaces in the United States.
