JOEL TILLINGHAST OF FIDELITY® LOW-PRICED STOCK FUND NAMED MORNINGSTAR'S 2021 "OUTSTANDING PORTFOLIO MANAGER"

BOSTON, June 21, 2021 -- Fidelity Investments® today announced that Morningstar has named Joel Tillinghast, portfolio manager of Fidelity Low-Priced Stock Fund (FLPSX), as the winner of its 2021 Morningstar Awards for Investing Excellence in the "Outstanding Portfolio Manager" category. For more information about Fidelity Low-Priced Stock Fund, please visit Fidelity.com.

The Outstanding Portfolio Manager category for Morningstar's annual awards recognizes portfolio managers who have delivered exceptional long-term performance while demonstrating excellent investment skill, the courage to differ from the consensus to benefit investors, and an alignment of interests with the strategies' investors. To qualify, managers must run one or more investment strategies that currently earn a Morningstar Analyst Rating™ of Gold or Silver for at least one vehicle and/or share class.

This is the second occasion that Morningstar has honored Tillinghast with an award. He was named U.S. Domestic Stock Fund Manager of the Year in 2002. This is an industry-leading ninth honor for portfolio managers at Fidelity Investments.

In recognizing Tillinghast, Morningstar Research Analyst Claire Butz noted, "Since taking the helm in late 1989 through May 2021, Tillinghast shaped Fidelity Low-Priced Stock's long-term track record to be among the industry's best. He looks for resilient companies with staying power, doesn't chase fads, avoids firms that lack enduring competitive advantages or load up on debt, and scrutinizes executives' integrity and prowess. Though this patient and risk-conscious approach can lag during bull markets, the fund's steady gains, subdued volatility, and impressive downside protection have kept its risk-adjusted results consistently strong."
